

Adieu 2013!

December 31, 2013. On this day last year The Joys of Forgetting was born. To some extent by chance, as I told you in the concluding note 7 of that paper. There seems little point now in my going back and completing the unfinished whimsy, From Bina's garden to Khovanov's homology, which had led to it. For, my quick definition of this knot homology is in the paper just mentioned, and these initial pages from this whimsy will tell you how, besides abundant three-leaved clover or trefoil, there is also to be found in this garden in the hills, a trefoil knot. Enjoy!